SEIBALL

Players use real-life strategy. Batters can switch hit, full swing, or bunt; pitchers can try to fool the batter with a variety of pitches.

Batter up!

Atan Baseball is one of the new ultra-realistic—the new breed of video sports attractions.

Now, for the first time, players can experience the challenge and competitive excitement of playing the game so realistically that it's like being there.

Two players can challenge each other, or one player can test his skill against the computer.

Take one and hit to right!

The game sets up with a batter at the plate and a complete nine man defense.

Players are in control.

Both teams are ready. The crowd cheers...the ball is pitched...the batter takes a foulball...the next pitch is a curve...the batter swings...it's a base hit to right field.

The offense uses his Trick-Ball to control his runner to first base, while the defense uses his Trick-Ball to move the outfielder to snag the ball, presses his button to throw, and uses his Trick-Ball again to guide the throw...

It's going to be close! The runner is going for second! He's got to get under a possible tag! The offense presses his button, the player slides, and his man is safe!

Realistic rules apply except that infielders are computer-controlled and get "better" as number of hits or runs increase in a given inning.

There is no base-stealing. Runners on base advance automatically only when there is a hit.

Each play is limited to 30 seconds after ball is hit. If time limit is passed, runners automatically advance to nearest base.

Video playfield "changes sides" after each 1/3 inning. A "warning" sound, when there is only 1/3 inning left, signals players that game is almost over.

You flash the signs...

Each side has 10 seconds to select a pre-programmed pitch or swing. The "batter" chooses a right or left full swing or bunt. The "pitcher" selects a foulball, change-up, curve or knuckle ball. Exclusive panel design keeps each player's tactics a secret from the other.
